Solons Act To Enforce Integration

Douglas Leads In Move For Lifting Racial Barriers

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP)—Thirteen senators joined today in proposing a bill designed to encourage racial integration of schools, but to compel compliance with Supreme Court rulings in that field if necessary.

The new civil rights measure also would arm the attorney general with authority to seek federal court injunctions for the protection of civil rights generally—a proposal defeated last year after a bitter battle.

Douglas Offers Bill
Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) announced he was introducing the bill with twelve other senators, seven Democrats and five Republicans, as cosponsors. He said a companion measure was being introduced in the House.

The legislation would authorize appropriation of 12½ million dollars over the next five years for federal assistance to states and local government units in developing community understanding and plans for school integration.

In addition, federal grants of 40 million dollars a year for each of the next five years would be authorized for school buildings, the employment of additional teachers and other costs incident to eliminating racial segregation.

Douglas noted that under this section funds could be made available to "local communities that wish to comply with the court's decisions, but where, as in Georgia and Virginia, the state threatens to cut off funds or close the schools."

Should efforts to achieve voluntary compliance fail, the secretary of health, education and welfare would be empowered by the legislation to draw up school integration plans in line with the Supreme Court's ruling.

Would Get Injunctions
If the secretary were unable to secure their acceptance from state or local officials, the attorney general would be authorized to seek federal court injunctions to force compliance.

The rest of the bill, under which the attorney general could obtain injunctions against violations of civil rights generally, would revive in somewhat altered form a section stricken by the Senate last year from the administration's civil rights measure.

Scientist Gets $500,000 Grant To Study Cancer

CHICAGO (AP)—A 34-year-old University of Chicago scientist, says he is "pleased" and "humble" with a grant of more than half a million dollars by the American Cancer Society to devote his lifetime to cancer research.

"Naturally, I am pleased," said Dr. Paul Talalay, a German-born physician biochemist in commenting on the grant which will provide his annual salary at the university until he reaches retirement age.

Dr. Talalay, who has been doing research in the activity of sex hormones and their enzymes, has been at the university since 1950. He received his medical degree from Yale University in 1948.

Ike Will Entertain For Top Diplomats

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Dwight D. Eisenhower will entertain tonight for high-ranking diplomats.

Because there now are so many weeks, but by that Hagerty said he heads of foreign missions assigned did not mean to say that there, a second diplomatic dinner will be held Tuesday night.

Harriman Urges Program To Prevent School Crimes

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman has called for a crash program to cope with juvenile crime in the city's schools.

He said he was willing to help devise one with Mayor Robert F. Wagner and the Board of Education. The mayor was receptive to his offer.

Last Friday 644 pupils were suddenly suspended from the schools by the Board of Education.

The action followed a series of rapes, knifings and other disorders involving both white and Negro students in or near schools. James E. Allen Jr., state commissioner of education, upheld the

Storms Rake East States, Toll Hits 27

By The Associated Press

Blizzards hammered sections of the Northeast today, paralyzing industry and business in many areas, as the season's coldest weather maintained an icy hold across the Eastern two thirds of the country.

Upstate New York appeared the hardest hit by the blizzards. Blowing and drifting snow—with drifts piled up on some highways—blocked hundreds of roads and marooned countless hundreds of motorists and farmers.

Schools in many places were ordered closed. Many industries also were shut down.

Syracuse, a city of 220,000, reeled from the storm, the worst since 1925. Snowfall yesterday measured more than a foot, bringing to 34 inches the amount of snow on the ground. Emergency measures were declared in the city and also in Utica.

The stormy weather was blamed for at least 13 lives in New York state, mostly in traffic accidents. Violent weather in other parts of the country was blamed for a total of 27 deaths resulted from traffic accidents on snow-covered or icy highways and from heart attacks while shoveling snow.

Stormy weather also pounded the New England area, where seven deaths were reported.

Snow, freezing rain or drizzle mixed with sleet created hazardous driving conditions in northern Texas, Oklahoma and southwest Kansas. Oklahoma reported seven deaths in traffic accidents on icy roads.

Hagerty Reports Ike Feels Better

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is feeling better today but still not completely recovered from a cold, the White House said.

He seems to be feeling better, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said.

He said Eisenhower's voice is less husky than it was all last week, but by that Hagerty said he heads of foreign missions assigned did not mean to say that there, a second diplomatic dinner will be held Tuesday night.

Tenclit's while tie affair will be week ago on his return from the fourth dinner on the 1958 so-brief holiday of golf and bridge calendar.

Cold Weather To Keep Grip

BALTIMORE (AP)—Five-day forecast. Temperatures will probably average 3 to 6 degrees below normal with a slow warming trend through the period. Snow flurries in the mountains all through the period with chance of some rain or snow elsewhere Friday or Saturday. Total precipitation one-tenth of an inch. Normal highs: 38-44. Normal lows: high teens in the mountains.

Union Slated To Repossess Beck's House

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Teamsters Union bosses today were reported considering repossessing the lavish union-owned home that Dave Beck, the union's ex-president, occupies in Seattle, Wash.

This is one of several "cleanup moves" reported today for discussion by Beck's successor, James R. Hoffa and other Teamsters chiefs gathered here for an executive board meeting.

Beck was due here to plead against taking away his free lodgings.

The Teamsters, largest U.S. union with 1,400,000 members, were expelled from the AFL-CIO two months ago on grounds of corrupt leadership.

Hoffa, now at the trucker union helm although one of those under criticism, was reported aiming at adapting a series of reforms looking toward re-entry into the federation.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, has made it clear, however, that Hoffa himself must forsake any top Teamsters post before the union will be taken back into the main body of organized labor.

Hoffa apparently hasn't the slightest idea of quitting.

Fuels And Party Leave On Last Leg Of Trek
AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—Dr. Vivian Fuchs and his British expedition left today on the last 700-mile leg of their attempt to make the first overland crossing of the Antarctic Continent.

Guiding the 12 Britons is Sir Edmund Hillary, who flew to Depot 700 to join Fuchs. The party is headed for Scott base, home of Hillary's New Zealand expedition on McMurdo Sound.

Russia Given Parley Terms By Macmillan

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan says he is willing to take part in summit talks with the Soviets—but only if they have "a reasonable prospect" of some agreement.

As President Eisenhower and other Western government chiefs have, the British Prime Minister also called for careful preparations in advance of any top-level meeting.

Laying it on the line to Soviet Premier Bulganin, the Conservative British leader replied to the Soviet leader's earlier requests for a summit meeting by saying: "There must be a reasonable prospect of achieving concrete results on specific issues. Otherwise we should run the risk of a fruitless meeting which might make matters worse and not better."

In his note delivered in Moscow Saturday and published today, Macmillan outlined two ways to lay the groundwork.

One method—and the one Macmillan said he prefers—would be a foreign ministers' conference. Moscow has regularly turned this down with accompanying blasts at U.S. Secretary of State Dulles.

Only yesterday Pravda accused him of being a "mouthpiece for a handful of American billionaires."

The other method suggested by Macmillan would use "confidential diplomatic exchanges," presumably via the ambassadors in Moscow, London and Washington.

Child, 6, Fatally Burned At Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six-year-old Shari Cuyler burned to death today when her house coat caught fire as she warmed herself in front of an open oven.

The girl, who lived with her grandmother, Mrs. Fannie MacQuarles, ran screaming into the yard after her clothing was ignited. She was pronounced dead on arrival at D. C. General Hospital.

McKeldin Has Cold
ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. McKeldin, suffering from a cold and fever all weekend, got out of bed today to keep office appointments.

He hopes to attend a Baltimore County Lincoln Day dinner tonight.

Lebanon Urged To Join Republic

Other Arab Nations Get Pleas For National Mergers

CAIRO (AP)—Backers of the new fleets the thoughts of President Nasser, called on the Hashemite kingdoms of Iraq and Jordan to join together under one ruler as "a great and blessed step" toward Arab unity.

Syrian President Shukri Kuwailat urged Lebanon, his next-door neighbor, to join Syria and Egypt in the U.A.R. In an address broadcast by Damascus radio, he declared such a move would be "very desirable" to preserve its independence, "the best guarantee of Lebanon's future." Speaking at a Maronite Christian church in Beirut, Chamoun advised the Arab state not to meddle in Lebanese affairs.

The country is half Christian.

Proposals for a union of Iraq and Jordan are not new, but one from an Egyptian source close to Nasser was startling in view of the Egyptian-Syrian hostility to the pro-Western governments of Iraq and Jordan.

Iraq belongs to the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact, a fact that has been particularly galling to the Cairo-Damascus axis, and Jordan has been leaning heavily on U.S. financial and military aid since King Hussein kicked out a pro-Egyptian government.

There has been considerable speculation that Hussein hoped to work out some sort of federation with his cousin, King Faisal of Iraq, and King Saud of Saudi Arabia as a counter to the U.A.R.

Faisal was due in Amman with a team of top Iraqi officials yesterday but postponed his arrival until tomorrow. An informed source in Amman said a union of the two countries would be discussed and that it might lead to a wider meeting with Saud.

Baltimore Mayor's Tax Switch Rapped

Long Attacks D'Alesandro's Fiscal Policy

Advertising Levy, Manufacturer Tax Elimination Sought

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro was called a fiscal and political blunderer today following his about-face proposal to do away with two controversial city taxes.

Sharp criticism came from Dr. Clarence D. Long, one of the mayor's political opponents, in the wake of D'Alesandro's statement he will press for elimination of the 6 per cent advertising tax and a levy on manufacturers' inventory and machinery.

The mayor spearheaded those taxes through the City Council. He declared at the time they were necessary as the only practical sources of revenue available without hiking the assessment on real estate or imposing some other general tax.

Says 'Recharge' Needed
Then, in a weekend television appearance, he said he had changed his mind because the city's business and industry needed economic recharging.

Dr. Long, in the same race for the Democratic senatorial nomination as D'Alesandro, declared that the mayor's "tax blunders have destroyed not only a large part of the economic future of Baltimore, but also his own political future. He has clearly shown his inability to cope with the vital problems of taxation and is only now beginning to recognize that used unwisely the power to tax is the power to destroy."

"The people of Maryland know full well that such tax promises are political rubbish," concluded Long, who is a Johns Hopkins University professor and former member of President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers.

James Bruce, another Democratic candidate for the Senate nomination, demanded television time equal to that given the mayor for his tax speech Saturday. Bruce's campaign headquarters called the mayor's tax speech a "pitch for votes."

Meanwhile, there were these other developments: Senate President Goldwater (R-Calif.) said he would introduce a bill in the General Assembly tonight which would outlaw taxes on advertising anywhere in the state. Drawn up by the Maryland Advertising Council Inc., D'Alesandro said the measure would have his support.

Baltimore lawyer Hyman Pressman issued a statement terming "unconstitutional" the mayor's proposal concerning inventory and machinery.

He said D'Alesandro proposes to do away entirely with taxes on new industry after Jan. 1, 1959. But at the same time the mayor's

U. S. Assailed By Red Chief

HONG KONG (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai attacked the United States today for its policies toward Formosa, Korea, Indonesia, the Middle East, disarmament and Laos.

Chou leveled the multiple charges in a foreign policy speech before the National People's Congress.

In his speech, broadcast by Peiping radio, Chou said China was not bothered by U.S. refusal to recognize the Red regime.

The crucial issue, he declared, is "that the United States antagonizes the Chinese people, occupies Egyptian-Syrian hostility to the pro-Western governments of Iraq and Jordan."

FCC Probe Counsel Keeps Job In Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee investigating alleged misconduct in the Federal Communications Commission voted today to keep its controversial chief counsel—at least temporarily.

Chairman Morgan Moulder (D-Mo.), told newsmen after a two-hour closed-door session that members refused to fire Bernard Schwartz despite Moulder's own prediction Sunday that the counsel would be dismissed.

The vote to keep Schwartz apparently was 6 to 5. Moulder said it was not along party lines. Moulder said the subcommittee also voted to request the appearance of Schwartz at an afternoon executive session where he added, the issue of firing the counsel "probably would be revived again."

Schwartz was not present at this morning's session. The subcommittee previously had scheduled the afternoon meeting with Schwartz to enable the counsel to brief members on upcoming hearings.

Moulder, who stated he was satisfied with Schwartz's handling of the investigation, said he could not give any reason for the apparent change of attitude of other subcommittee members.

It had been almost a foregone conclusion that the young 34-year-old New York University law professor would be fired from the subcommittee job.

Moulder said in reply to questions that Schwartz has told him the subcommittee staff has evidence that Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams has interfered in cases before the FCC.

However, Moulder said he had "not personally seen" such evidence.

The chairman said he has been "frustrated and discouraged" in overcoming roadblocks thrown in the subcommittee's path but he denied reports that he had been threatened with any political reprisals.

Search For Bomber In Bay Is Abandoned

WASHINGTON (AP)—Surface search for the Air Force B57 twin engine bomber which crashed into Chesapeake Bay Jan. 25 has been discontinued, but some diving operations will be carried on later.

An Air Force spokesman said Egyptian-Syrian hostility to the pro-Western governments of Iraq and Jordan.

Tunis Envoy Carries Plea To UN Head

Bombing By French Creates Explosive Situation For West

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Tunisia sought U.N. action today on her protest against France's bombing of a Tunisian frontier village. The United States hoped to help smooth over the explosive situation.

Tunisian Ambassador Mongi Slim delivered to U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld his government's protest against the bombing and strafing Saturday of Sakiet Sidi Youssef. Tunisia said 78 persons were killed and 84 wounded.

The envoy told newsmen his government was studying ways of placing the issue before the Security Council.

U. S. Officials Disturbed
The attack aroused open concern in Washington. The State Department said the U.S. government was "profoundly disturbed."

Secretary of State Dulles called in French Ambassador Herve Alphand "to express our concern and to seek further information," a statement said.

Communist opponents of the United States were expected to make propaganda capital out of the fact that 17 of the planes the French used in the attack were American-made—11 twin-engine B26 bombers and 6 Navy Corsair fighter-bombers.

The State Department was expected to try (1) to get the French to minimize their use of "hot pursuit" against Algerian rebels fleeing into Tunisia, and (2) to get the Tunisian government to tighten border regulations so as to reduce rebel traffic into Tunisia.

The French said the attack was to wipe out an anti-aircraft emplacement that had damaged a French plane. The attack was only against military objectives, they claimed, adding that aerial photographs showed that nine tenths of the village remained intact.

Schools, Homes Bombed
Nehi Ladgham, Tunisian state secretary, said at a funeral for 8 of the victims that schools and homes had been bombed. Goesta Heuman, a Swedish Red Cross official who watched from the town's outskirts as the 25 French warplanes bombed and strafed for an hour, said, "I will never forget the horrible sight of Sakiet. Women and children lay dead and bleeding."

The attack came at the height of the market hour while the streets and market squares were crowded.

France Will Prevent Occurrences In Future
PARIS (AP)—Diplomatic sources said today that France has told the United States steps would be considered to prevent any repetition of such incidents as Saturday's bombing of a Tunisian village in which 78 persons were killed and 84 wounded.

These sources said the French Ministry secretary general, Louis Joxe, told U. S. Ambassador (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

GUATEMALA (AP)—Rightist Gen. Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes, front runner in Guatemala's presidential race, was assured today of the needed approval from Congress.

Ydigoras' election became a certainty when the congressional committee that counted the ballots from the Jan. 19 election announced that he had led the four-way contest. Democratic Nationalist runner in Guatemala's presidential race, was named second.

Since no candidate got a majority, Congress must choose between the two high men.

Lloyd To Confer On Cyprus Issue
LONDON (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd left by plane for Athens today to discuss the future of Cyprus with Greek government officials.

Lloyd took with him still-secret British proposals for settling the dispute over her eastern Mediterranean island, a dispute that has strained relations among Britain, Greece and Turkey, all NATO allies.

There has been speculation he will propose to the Greeks that alist candidate Col. Jose Luis Cruz Salazar was named second.

Since no candidate got a majority, Congress must choose between the two high men.

Rockets To Moon This Year Possible, U. S. Experts Say
WASHINGTON (AP)—Military rocket stages to send a payload to the moon this year. So far, the Air Force could shoot rockets as far as the moon this year.

The payload in a moon rocket would include radio transmitters for sending back information on the flight and a spotter charge to mark the rocket's impact on the moon, the experts said.

The Air Force's moon rocket campaign within months, if it got permission to try. Medaris also said on a television interview that the various advances in American Army could send a manned expedition to the moon in 15 years, search and development.

The Army used its Jupiter-C specialists said the Air Force's rocket in modified form to launch 1,500-mile-range Thor missile. America's first earth satellite, the Explorer, Jan. 31.

Airman Takes Off On 'Trip To Moon'

By GARTH JONES
SAN ANTONIO, Texas. — Man's chances to conquer outer space were on trial today by a blond airman in a narrow steel cabin at Randolph Air Force Base.

Airman Donald G. Farrell, 23, a six-footer from the Bronx, squeezed into a 3-by-5-foot experimental space capsule yesterday morning at the School of Space Medicine for one of the most fantastic voyages in history.

For six full days he will pretend to be a 75 per cent — both physically and psychologically — that he is aboard a space rocket headed for the moon.

Next Saturday morning — everything goes well — he will climb from the instrument-laden space barrel a weary but unharmed veteran of the mysteries of space travel.

Long Attacks

As he climbed into the space capsule, Farrell commented calmly: "Well, here goes."

The 165-pound guinea pig wore a pair of light blue, two-piece hospital pajamas, plus several pounds of wire taped to various parts of his body to relay his physical condition constantly to the scientists outside the steel capsule.

The same airman in the cabin is being used over and over with chemicals removing carbon dioxide and new oxygen being added.

The next inside the cabin is kept at 55 degrees or lower. Explorers on the first U.S. satellite, has indicated that its interior is around 65 degrees.

Farrell's food for the seven-day trip is inside the cabin. Most of it is in concentrated and dehydrated form. An electrically heated cup near one elbow will furnish hot soup.

Moisture from his breath, perspiration and other waste moisture is purified for reuse as drinking water. Other wastes are taken care of chemically. He can push a button and deodorize his space capsule. Another button increases or decreases the humidity.

Brings Legal Actions

The tax will yield an estimated $1,973,640 in 1953.

The tax on advertising, likewise attacked by business as well as individuals, will produce about $2,653,000, the city estimates.

Effective Jan. 1, it imposes a 4 per cent levy on advertising — payable by the advertiser — and 2 per cent by the publisher.

Flash Instructions To Him

At carefully scheduled intervals the experts outside the cabin flash instructions to Farrell on a City Council to reduce Baltimore's 5 cent a pack cigarette tax by at least 2 cents. The city to juggle his thumbs to test muscles had upped that tax 2 cents the year before. Last week in a complicated problem in the General Assembly enacted a teachers' pay raise bill which would be supported in large part by a 3-cent levy on a pack of cigarettes, effective July 1.

Labor Leader Proposes Boosting Income Taxes

BALTIMORE, Md. — A Baltimore labor leader suggests upping the State income tax as a solution to the revenue problems of Baltimore City.

Former Official Succumbs At 83

BALTIMORE, Md. — Samuel L. Willard, former vice president of the Coca Cola Co., died yesterday at his home here. He was 83.

Willard was put in charge of Coca Cola's production at the age of 21 by his uncle, Asa G. Candler, one of the founders of the company.

He was one of the founders of the Southern Hotel Corp. and was an officer of the Pennsylvania Sand Glass Co.

Willard contributed generously to charities and education.

A bachelor, Willard is survived by his brother, Josiah J. Willard, and two nephews and nieces, all of Baltimore.

Probe Starts In Oklahoma Plane Crash

HOBBART, Okla. — Investigators for the Civil Aeronautics Administration are trying to determine the cause of a civilian plane crash which killed two Air Force officers near Hobart yesterday.

One victim was identified by Walker Air Force Base at Roswell, N. M., as Capt. Theodore R. Bowditch, 40, Waldorf, Md. He was a member of the 40th Bomb Squadron at Walker.

The other victim was tentatively identified by Walker officials as Capt. Eber J. Neeley of Lubbock, Tex., but it was not known where he was stationed.

Both men were believed en route to an Air Force school at Chanute Air Force Base in Illinois. The CAA said they left Lubbock yesterday at 2 p.m. on a flight plan indicating they planned to land at Springfield, Mo.

The plane crashed in a pasture about nine miles south of Hobart in a snowstorm. Mrs. Walter Jackson said the plane was turned over and over shortly before it crashed.

Who Decides When A President Is Disabled Still Moot Question

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 — Still no answer to the question: Who decides if the President is disabled when he can't or won't decide himself? Congress may do again this year what it has always done before: nothing.

The Constitution simply says that if a president can't perform his duties, they shall "devolve on the vice president."

Congress and constitutional lawyers have argued the problem for years. Should the President decide if he is disabled, or the vice president, or some kind of commission?

No president in history, no matter how ill, has stepped aside even temporarily for his vice president. The word "temporarily" raises still another question.

Suppose a disabled president turns his duties over to the vice president, then recovers and wants to resume the presidency? The Constitution doesn't say. Nor does it say anything on this: a president is too disabled to do his job but won't admit it or, perhaps, through unconsciousness, can't ask the vice president to act for him.

What then? Does the vice president make the decision? Suppose he's unscrupulous and wants the presidency even to the point of declaring an able president disabled.

House and Senate could vote, or a total of five.

Is a commission the answer? But what kind of commission? Members of the President's Cabinet? The Supreme Court? Doctors? Members of Congress? Or members from all three branches of government?

Recently Chief Justice Warren in a negative action, took the most positive action ever taken on this subject: he said he and the eight other justices wanted no part in passing on presidential disability.

The reason: since the court might some day have to decide on the constitutionality of some arrangement for declaring a president disabled, the justices wanted no part in making the disability decision.

This year a forward step — if it can be called that — was taken in Congress. Key Democrats and Republicans in the House agreed on this:

A commission should be created to decide presidential disability. Its members: the vice president, secretary of state, speaker of the House, president pro tempore of the Senate, and the Democratic and Republican leaders from House and Senate. Total: eight.

But the vice president, speaker and president pro tempore should have no vote. Thus only the secretary of state and the Democratic and Republican leaders of

The French official was described as being very disturbed by the incident at Sakiet Sidi Youssef.

Eisenhower, Dulles Confer On Situation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles conferred again today about the French bombing of a Tunisian frontier village. The United States has termed the episode profoundly disturbing.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said that Eisenhower had personally instructed Dulles to call in French Ambassador Herve Alphand Sunday and express American concern.

Hagerty said that additional information has not been received yet.

Eisenhower and Dulles were conferring at the White House when Hagerty made the statement to newsmen.

Asked about Eisenhower's personal reaction, Hagerty replied he believes the President's views were reflected in the statement of concern by the State Department yesterday.

Asked whether the United States is contemplating any action, Hagerty declined to go beyond his statement today and the one issued by the State Department Sunday.

Quigley To Run Again For House

WASHINGTON — Former Rep. James M. Quigley (D-Pa.) announced formally yesterday that he will seek to regain the congressional seat he held in the 84th Congress.

The district—Pennsylvania's 19th—comprises Adams, York and Cumberland counties, and includes Joe N. McElveen. Shot in the head "President Eisenhower's voting record" and back, McElveen's body was found in a gravel pit.

In his announcement, the 39-year-old Camp Hill, Pa., attorney said he will wage an active campaign "on the issues and on my record."

He pledged, if elected, to give the district "wide-awake representation" rather than just "take up down under the first blast from a shotgun."

Quigley, now serving as administrative assistant to Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) will file for Democratic nomination for the post in Pennsylvania's May primary.

Holder of the 19th district seat at present is Rep. S. Walter Stauffer (R) of York, who has fought since Wednesday night, Quigley for the past several years.

Pair Admits Pistol Slaying Of Deacon

BALTIMORE — Two men were held without bail yesterday after pleading guilty to murder, assault and robbery charges in the "gangland style" slaying of a young Negro church deacon.

The pair, Lester Rory, 30, and John R. Banks, 24, both Negroes, pleaded guilty yesterday before Magistrate Standley L. Richardson.

Police said the church deacon apparently had been shot once in the back as he tried to flee and the district "wide-awake representation" rather than just "take up down under the first blast from a shotgun."

The two men also were charged with attempted robbery and shooting with intent to kill in a holdup ocratic nomination for the post in Pennsylvania's May primary.

Local Pastor, Wife To Talk In Honduras

Rev. Everett W. Culp, pastor of First Methodist Church, and his wife will travel to the Republic of Honduras for a vacation and evangelistic services.

In past years, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Culp have conducted evangelistic services in Haiti, Costa Rica, Jamaica and Cuba. He preached in English, except in Jamaica, where his sermons were given through an interpreter.

Initial plans for this year's trip were made last October when the local minister was attending the convention of the World Gospel Mission at Marion, Ind. While there he met Rev. Donald Hawk of Catacamas, an isolated area some 150 miles from Tegucigalpa, capital of the Republic of Honduras.

Last Friday, Rev. Mr. Culp received a letter from Rev. John Gazzard, British Methodist minister who is pastor of a church in Belize, capital of the crown colony of Honduras.

The local minister, who has been pastor of First Methodist Church for nearly three years, said his annual trips are financed from his salary, and from donations for weddings and evangelistic work.

He and his wife plan to leave here February 17 and expect to return on March 21. They will drive to Miami and then fly to the Central American republic.

Maryland U. Student Held For Strangling

WASHINGTON — Police held driver who happened on the scene of a University of Maryland student radioed for police help.

Police said Lee appeared to be on a man the student said he dead when they arrived on the scene and Sokol released him. He was pronounced dead on arrival at D. C. General Hospital.

Charles G. Sokol, 25, of Riverdale Heights, Md., was quoted by police that he strangled hitchhiker Reginald Adolph Lee when Lee tried to rob him.

Sokol told this story to police yesterday.

He gave Lee a ride in downtown Washington as he was driving home. Lee grabbed him by the throat, saying, "I got a couple already tonight and now I'm going to get you."

Sokol stopped the car, wrestled with Lee and got a headlock on point approximately north and south. As the pair struggled, a taxi south.

W. Va. Sets Reappraisal Of Non-Utility Property

CHARLESTON — All non-utility property in the state will be reappraised during the next three years under a law signed by the governor Saturday.

But sources close to the State Tax Department indicated Saturday that the great amount of work property received Gov. Underwood's signature just two days after the Legislature concluded its 1958 session.

The upward revision of property appraisals will furnish increased local tax revenues to go chiefly for schools.

The new law, it has been predicted, could bring in between 25 and 35 million dollars more a year.

Pay Up To 90 Per Cent

The state will pay up to 90 per cent of the costs of the general removal of the present 5 per cent reappraisal. For the next three fiscal years 1½ million dollars will tax law and on the privilege tax be provided from the general rev. paid by railroads and certain share.

The law, however, contains a companion measure authorizes two-year cutoff date on removal county courts to use certain un- of exemptions. But about five million expected surpluses to help meet non dollar will be produced, it is the counties' share of the costs, expected, from next July 1 until the reappraisal law, made of July 1, 1960.

RECORD KEEPING IS IMPORTANT

A Pharmacist's careful records may suddenly become important in wholly unexpected ways. Suppose a child swallows a handful of tablets from an old forgotten bottle. Are the tablets harmless or dangerous? If there is a prescription number on the bottle label, a call to the drug store that dispensed the tablets, many years before, will instantly give the identity of the tablets and ascertain whether or not emergency treatment is indicated. The pharmacist needs a little of your time when filling your prescription to keep his record accurate. Walsh-McCagh prescription files date back to 1898 which indicate the thoroughness and care given to every prescription filled by our pharmacists. It's a reassuring feeling to know at our Pharmacy you get the best pharmaceutical care for your prescription. Why not find out for yourself.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

New Republic

MANY TIMES in history the world has been able to welcome warmly at the very outset the formation of a new state. But men of good will must take a guarded view of the new Middle East federation which joins Egypt and Syria. Often such combinations lead quickly to a new political and economic stability, bringing a better balance of resources and a certain canceling out of explosive political factors. No one dares to say now that this will be the result of the Egyptian-Syrian merger.

FOR ONE THING, the expected president of the federation in Egypt's President Nasser, an unprincipled petty dictator who has played footsy with the Russians and who aspires to head a sweeping anti-Western Arab coalition. It remains to be seen how a regime dominated by him can benefit the Syrian people, even though the present pro-letariat government of Syria might be pulled some degrees away from that orientation by the more independent-minded Nasser. Secondly, Egypt will have four-fifths of the territory in the federation, as well as 24 million of the total of 28 million people. Even without Nasser, this would seem to pose serious problems for Syria in maintaining its rightful interests. And, third, the new state is handicapped as is Pakistan by having its territory split by another nation, in this case Israel. These difficulties cannot be wholly offset by certain bonds of language, religion and culture.

THE EGYPTIAN-SYRIAN federation possibly will act as a magnet to draw other Arab states into the fold (tiny, pro-letariat Yemen already is counted upon). If others should indeed follow, the world will be watching to see whether they might tend to act as a check both upon Nasser's personal ambition and upon the federation's still leftward leanings. The world will be watching, too, to observe whether the new United Arab Republic will persist in Nasser's purpose of driving Israel into oblivion and otherwise disrupting the Middle East, or whether it will grasp its golden chance to work for peace and a better life for the many millions in the Arab world.

Unheeded Advice

THOUGH THERE have been improvements in the nation's traffic safety record from time to time, the story is still fundamentally a grim one. And this is so in spite of a heavy barrage of safety appeals. Information coming to President Eisenhower's traffic safety committee suggests most of these appeals may be bouncing off American motorists. Evidently nearly all of them think safety advice is for the other fellow, that they already are above average or better drivers. The Opinion Research Corporation, inquiring into motorists' attitudes, found that 93 per cent place themselves in the "safe" category. A bare 2 per cent conceded they might be a bit below average. The rest had no views. Safety campaigns apparently may have tough sledding until more drivers can be persuaded that they still have something to learn. This may involve better measurement of checking drivers against those standards. Traffic safety funds channeled in this direction might be very well spent.

Shattered Legend

A NATION is sustained by many things, including its legends, large and small. When one of those dies, we are all perhaps a bit poorer. For long years, former President Harry Truman's name has been linked in seemingly happy association with "The Missouri Waltz." Both as president and as piano player, Mr. Truman was presumed to have adopted it as his theme song. He would play it at the drop of a chord, smiling knowingly as he gave it his mildest inflections. Two notes at the piece from any comedian instantly invoked Mr. Truman's image. Now, blow of all blows, it turns out he doesn't like the "Waltz" at all but thinks it's bad music. Evidently all these years, only politeness, political or otherwise, kept him from saying so. At this point, if anyone dares to say that Franklin D. Roosevelt didn't like "Home on the Range," our foundations may start to totter.

Kefauver Would Protect Free Enterprise

WASHINGTON — Estes Kefauver is doggedly working some of the richest political pay dirt now on Capitol Hill. If he can learn how to separate the gold from the dross, he will profit both himself and his party.

His Anti-trust and Monopoly subcommittee is digging into high prices. Stans are not hard to find that Democratic efforts to make a viable political issue out of prices are finally finding a responsive electorate.

The answer the Tennesseean is seeking is why it is that prices are staying at record levels at the same time that production is going down and unemployment is rising.

The answer, he thinks, is that prices in many industries are set and maintained artificially, without much reference to demand and supply. In the jargon of the economists, these are "administered prices."

THE KEFAUVER committee has examined pricing practices in the steel industry. It is now busily listening to the heads of the big automobile concerns. Both industries, Kefauver suspects, are powerful enough to resist the ordinary results of demand-supply relationships in setting prices.

The steel industry is operating now at the rate of 55 per cent of capacity. Last year it operated at 65 per cent capacity. Yet prices have stayed up.

From August, 1956, through July, 1957, steel prices went up $19.50 a ton. The companies blamed this on increased labor costs, but Kefauver has charged that the price increases were double the increased cost of labor.

Despite lowering production rates, committee staff members point out, U. S. Steel reported for last year the highest profits in its history.

In the automobile industry, prices are up by about four per cent on 1958 models although the rate of production has fallen to 60 per cent of capacity. All industry spokesmen have insisted on the high degree of competition among the companies.

BUT KEFAUVER points out that the competition does not extend to prices. Among the so-called low-priced three, Ford, Chevrolet, and Plymouth, wholesale prices on a model-for-model basis vary no more than $20 between them. This seems to the Senator something more than coincidence. Especially since it is believed that actual manufacturing costs of the cars vary more sharply.

He believes that in increasing prices this year, the automobile industry cut possible sales anywhere from 500,000 to 1,000,000 vehicles.

Lower production, he thinks, has meant reduced employment in the automobile industry itself as well as in the steel, rubber and textile industries and all their satellites.

To clinch his argument for lower automobile costs, Kefauver points to the success of foreign car sales, which he estimates will reach 300,000 in 1958, a 100 per cent increase. American Motors is the only automobile manufacturer now exceeding last year's sales and production figures. That company's smallest Rambler is now outselling such established leaders as Dodge and Mercury.

KEFAUVER feels that hearings will show that without any open violation of the anti-trust laws, industry leaders such as U. S. Steel and General Motors can easily discipline smaller price-cutters.

The area into which the subcommittee is moving is one in which present anti-trust laws may be effective. What Kefauver is seeking is a remedy which will keep competition, especially price competition, free, and at the same time avoid Federal regulation.

If he succeeds, say some of his associates, he will have done more to protect the free enterprise system than some of his conservative detractors.

It was something they ate. You'd have had a stomach ache, too.

An official committee document indicates that Local 399 paid Leach's grocery bill, including 20 pounds of almonds, $23.72 worth of turkeys, a case of spinach, a case of mayonnaise and $34.03 worth of fresh caviar.

The union bought its assistant vice-president 100 cans of frozen orange juice, 50 jars of frozen coffee, 50 packages of frozen blueberries, 50 jars of crabmeat and 100 frozen chickens.

LEACH STILL, was in good appetite. He bought at union expense a case of Thousand Island dressing, a Virginia ham, a case of apricots $27 worth of crepes suzette, a dozen goose livers at $83.40, and assorted consignments of artichoke, hot-tonis, French pastries, tea cakes and salad sticks.

His brothers also quenched his thirst with three cases of bourbon, a case of Scotch, two cases of French champagne, two cases of Burgundy, assorted liquors and of the Foreign Relations Committee, with access to much secret material.

Two Democratic members of this committee are also mentioned as presidential possibilities—Humphrey and Kennedy.

SEN. KEFAUVER of Tennessee has tried to make up for his short foreign experience by many one-man trips abroad.

It is noteworthy, however, that nearly all senators are lone-wolf operators on foreign policy questions. They frequently come up with ideas which are at complete variance with White House policy.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York has broad experience as an ambassador and foreign aid administrator. Ex-Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois got his as a civilian Navy official in World War II. Ex-Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota has been both foreign aid administrator and disarmament negotiator.

The other governors—Williams of Michigan and the long shots like Knight of California, Leader of Pennsylvania and Freeman of Minnesota are as blank on foreign experience as Governor Meyer.

The conventional out for any candidate in this last category is to say that he can get the advice of the best qualified expert and make him secretary of state. But it isn't that easy any more.

Senator William F. Knowland of California has had 13 years in the U. S. Senate. During most of this time he has been a member

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK — You come to work early because you are going to see "Oh Captain!" the musical comedy fashioned out of bits and pieces of a British movie called "The Captain's Paradise," and you discover it to be a fairly vain and laggard item, brimful of sexy jokes, to which you have no objection, when they are bright and witty — but mostly they are neither.

You go back to your office and find that Peggy Buchanan, of Waco, Texas, is in town. You hasten to call her and invite her to dine with you and go see "Winesburg, Ohio," the play made from Sherwood Anderson's stories of a small town.

She accepts, gives you the Waco news, and next night you go to her hotel, meet her and take her off to Absinthe House for a French dinner without snails.

DURING dinner she mentions casually that you have mentioned a refrigerator and clothes washer almost never advertised, more expensive than most and guaranteed for seven years and what is its name? You tell her and remember that exactly 119 readers have asked the same question, and of these only seven included stamped, self-addressed envelopes, but you do not feel that you can rightly not answer the remaining 112 of them.

She then meets Marc Reuben and his bride, Edith, happy owners of the restaurant, and they tell her of the new place they are moving to within a few days.

Dinner over, you go to the theatre and find "Winesburg, Ohio" to be a dedicated and honest adaptation of the Anderson prose. Because you have to go back and meet a review deadline, you have to treat Peggy in a somewhat uncavalier fashion; you put her into a taxi and send her on her way.

LEAVING the office late you run into Pierre Bellocq, the bright young French caricaturist and artist, and fall to talking about a Long Island restaurant named Mont d'Or.

He says he knows nothing about it but that the Mont d'Or district of France is noted for coal, cheese, radium and a trace of gold, only the cheese being unmined.

"They make that," he says, solemnly.

He also tells you that 1,000 years before Christ the area was volcanic, abounding in sputtering, flame-throwing volcanoes. These died out soon after and left a mounded residue of tormented lava in which lay radium and some gold and beneath them much coal. Cheese came along later when the peasants discovered that it was easier to make whey than chisel out meager fragments of gold.

Thanking Pierre for his short course in French geological history, you wander over to Broadway.

AT 47TH STREET you look up and down and reaffirm that what has happened to the famed and constantly written about street of broken dreams, winking lights and spurts of fame is sad.

Where crowds used to abound, where taxis cluttered, where night clubs had open doors and eager patrons, now is a half-asleep strew of tawdry, not closed shops, a few sleazy dance halls, and some movie theatres with their marquees dark.

By 1 o'clock in the morning the boulevard of bizarre life is a darkened, nearly empty avenue, and this on a glorious night with a dry, cloudless sky and a gentle temperature.

It isn't the old Broadway, it's scarcely Broadway at all. It reminds you how wise a colleague was to discard his old column title, "Your Broadway And Mine" and change it to its present one, which embraces New York generally.

It also brings to mind that this columnist, about the time the change was setting in for Broadway, invited Arthur Kober, the writer, to do a guest column for one day. Arthur did a fine one, which included changing the title to "Your Broadway And Keep It."

YOU FIND Elver Engsted at 46th Street, also taking a less than joyous view of the quiet, lifeless street, and he tells you that Martha Scott's play is coming in late in the month and that it was no press agent's dream that Martha twisted her ankle on a stair making an entrance in Philadelphia in the play and completed the performance in agony.

She was so determined to keep the show on that no one in the audience even suspected she had severely injured herself. You, being an old and unwavering admirer of Martha, thank him for certifying the story.

And then, there being nothing else to do, you go home. Which isn't as ungallant as it sounds. It is your job to do—and if there is nothing else to be done—then it makes sense to go home.

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK — If you can trust the feminine intuition and business judgment of one of America's top women bankers, the present recession will be short-lived.

"I'd rather call it a pause, anyway, than a recession," said Mrs. Mary Roebeling, president of the Trenton Trust Co., in Trenton, N. J.

"In the long pull, we are still the greatest nation in the world."

A firm optimism and faith in a growing future are part of the life credo of this sprightly 32-year-old widow, who thinks she is no less feminine because she can handle the details of a five million dollar bank loan as well as a roast or decorate her apartment.

MRS. ROEBELING started her business career at 20 in the statistical department of a Philadelphia brokerage firm. Soon she was selling securities herself.

When her husband — wealthy Siegfried Roebeling, member of the family that built the Brooklyn Bridge — died in 1935, she took his place as a member of the board of the Trenton Trust Co. Two years later she was elected president.

Mrs. Roebeling, who also is a director or trustee of 18 other corporations, was named in a recent magazine article as one of America's 10 wealthiest women. She is reported to have an income of about a million dollars a year.

An attractive redhead with greenish-blue eyes, Mrs. Roebeling dresses chicly. This year she was picked by the Guild of Professional Beauticians as one of the country's "10 best-dressed" women, an honor that amused rather than overwhelmed her.

Some 65 per cent of the employees in her bank are women, but Mrs. Roebeling says this figure only reflects a growing trend in the financial world.

"An increasing number of women are going into banking," she said, "because of the pleasant working conditions, the associations it brings, and because they are pre-eminently qualified for it."

Mrs. Roebeling, who reared two children, says the frustrated career woman is largely a myth.

"The career women I know don't feel defeated by life," she remarked. "Most of them are happy, and have happy homes. The two-paycheck family has become fashionable now."

FOUR TIMES a grandmother, she keeps up a social schedule that would wear down a college coed. She likes to dance, spends as many as five nights a week attending public dinners, parties, theaters and musical concerts.

She reads herself to sleep and right now is reading three books concurrently — ranging from a tome on economics to "The Loves of Voltaire."

Women millionaires, like men millionaires, have their own success formulas, and when they get on this subject there is absolutely no sex difference between them.

Here, for example, is Mrs. Roebeling's recipe for getting ahead:

"Hard work."

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON — A nationally-known Congressman, the chairman of a powerful House committee, gave his daughter a job in his office. The young woman, a bit of a prude, had been on the job only a few days when she took a call for her father. She said he wasn't in. The caller hesitated, then inquired with whom he was speaking.

"I'm the confidential secretary," replied the beneficiary of nepotism, promoting herself.

The caller chuckled intimately and identified himself as another prominent Congressman. In a deep southern voice, he said: "Well — if you're the confidential secretary, I want to leave a confidential message."

He confided that he was arranging a lovely junket abroad. The congressional offspring urged him to give her the details.

"Well," gurgled the caller, "this is going to be the most wonderful trip. We are going to take a military plane and fly to Rome."

"You know, the Roman women are mighty pretty and we're going to look them over."

"Then we're going to climb back into that military plane and fly to Scandinavia. The Scandinavian women are mighty hot stuff and we're going to inspect them."

"It sounds divine," breathed the chairman's daughter.

"But that isn't all," exulted the caller. "After we have looked the Scandinavian women over, we are going to get back into the beautiful military plane and fly to Cairo to inspect the belly dancers. And we want your Congressman to come along."

"Oh, that's wonderful," said the young woman. She caused choking noises on the other end by adding: "I'm sure father would love it."

HEARINGS BEFORE the house subcommittee on general government matters reveal that the Eisenhowers have help in running the White House, and don't have to do all the chores themselves.

Ike's and Mamie's hired help is divided into two categories — maintenance, and domestic. They are 72 in number and receive total wages of $278,440 a year.

The maintenance force, which should be able to overcome any squirrel depredations, consists of a principal operating engineer, seven assistant operating engineers, a foreman of carpenters, two assistant foremen of carpenters, three carpenters, a foreman of painters, a foreman electrician, three more electricians, a foreman plumber, two other plumbers, a plumber's helper, foreman gardener, 11 gardeners, a storekeeper, an assistant storekeeper, and a clerk.

The domestic staff consists of a maitre d'hotel, housekeeper, assistant housekeeper, first butler, second butler, two more butlers, head cook, second cook, four other cooks, valet, five doormen, a foreman houseman, four housemen, a head laundress, pantryman and eight maids.

WITH THE acquisition of John Dempsey Hoblitzell as the new Senator from West Virginia, the Senate has been provided with another name that has to be handled carefully. In calling the roll, chief clerk Emory L. Frazier has to be on guard not to stumble over Hoblitzell, as well as Hickenlooper, Dworshak, Hruska, Lausche and Kuchel.

Up to now Mr. Frazier has not hit a foul ball, even remembering, at all times, to put the accent on the second syllable of O'Mahoney. But he would just as soon that Rep. Gracie Plost, of Idaho, didn't get any ambitions to run for the Senate.

Top Muskrat Skinner Wins Title Third Time

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—Elihu Abbott has made a habit of winning the National Muskrat Skinning Contest, taking top honors three of the last four years. This year he's done it again.

The 28-year-old Abbott, a trapper from Robbins, Md., skinned five muskrats in 1 minute, 23.2 seconds Saturday night in the windup feature of the Cambridge Outdoor Show.

Watching Abbott and six others compete was a crowd of about 1,000. They saw two of Abbott's cousins finish right behind him. Herbert North Jr., 18, who skinned three rats in 42 seconds to take junior honors, finished second in the senior contest in the time of 1:37.2.

Third was Wallace Abbott with a time of 1:35.4.

A demonstration and instruction on clothing alterations will be given to women at Hill Street Wednesday, according to Miss Ruth C. McColl, supervisor of home economics in Allegany County public schools.

There will be two hours of instruction from 1 until 3 p. m. Wednesday, February 19. Participants will be given a certificate of completion.

Mrs. Marie Farrell will be in charge of instruction. The first hour each week will be devoted to demonstrating simple methods of clothing construction. The remainder will be devoted to helping individuals with personal fitting problems.

This service is offered through the adult education program of the County Board of Education. Currently, Mrs. Farrell is conducting a similar class nearly completed at Northeast School in Bowman's Addition.

Commission On Youth Set For County

Formation of an Allegany County Youth Commission will be discussed at a meeting in City Hall auditorium Tuesday, February 25.

Invitations are being extended to 100 leaders or organizations engaged in youth work, and to the public.

Plans for the formation of the Youth Commission are being made by a committee headed by Morris Baron, member of the Governor's Committee for the Prevention and Treatment of Juvenile Delinquency. Fred H. Anderson, magistrate for juvenile cases; Mrs. Eleanor Westfield, director of the County Welfare Board; Homer S. Higgins, pupil personnel supervisor for the Board of Education; and Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame, administrative assistant for the County Health Department.

The committee will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the Board of Education office to plan the program for the organizational meeting.

The impetus for the youth commission comes from the Community Coordinating Council of Child Welfare Agencies, formed last year to direct the work of about 12 agencies which are interested in child welfare work.

The invitations point out that the community organization for the benefit of the youths and the community is being formed at the suggestion of the Governor's Commission and with the sanction of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

"It was agreed by all," the letter said, "that in order to put up a telling fight against this evil, we must bring home to our people in all sections of the state the seriousness of what this threat means to our homes and for our society."

"The focal point of infection is spreading and you cannot tell where it will strike next. It does not always attack on the wrong side of the track. It is a problem of the whole community, and the whole community must be enlisted in the fight."

Cold Deters Firemen In Home Blaze

FROSTBURG—Thirty-five Frostburg volunteer firemen answered a call Sunday afternoon in near zero weather to extinguish a fire at the home of Mrs. Mary Washington, Park Avenue, which was started when an electric light fixture fell on some frozen water pipes.

When firemen arrived the house was full of smoke and fire was burning in the partition above the kitchen where some frozen water lines appeared as a blue glow. The firemen discovered the cause of the fire was a small, unlit, frozen water pipe.

Due to the high winds in the weather that was around four to six degrees the firemen experienced difficulty in carrying ladders to the roof and in cutting up the roof to get to the fire.

The fire broke out in a small room with the fire being confined to the one corner of the home. However, smoke completely filled the house making it difficult for the firemen to check whether everyone was evacuated from the building and the fire was not spreading. The new breathing apparatus was used by firemen working within the building.

This was the third alarm answered by the department within a 24 hour period. Saturday evening a blue fire at 34 Hill Street brought out 33 firemen. Shortly after 11 p. m. another call was received from the same home with 34 firemen answering this call.

Volunteer firemen from Clarksburg with their two trucks came to Frostburg to stand by at the fire station while three pieces of Frostburg apparatus were busy at the fire.

The Washington dwelling is in a group of houses standing close together which are scheduled to be demolished to make room for the new Laboratory School at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Federation Cites Keyser Teacher For Area Honor

KEYSER—Mrs. Ruth Goldsworthy, teacher of English and social studies at Keyser High School, has been named "Teacher of the Year" for the eastern district of West Virginia, according to a letter from Miss Betty D'Aiuto, president of the Eastern District of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

This honor was accorded Mrs. Goldsworthy by the nine clubs in the Eastern district, including Romney, Piedmont, Martinsburg, Charles Town, Harpers Ferry, Shepherdstown, Moorefield, Berkeley Springs and Keyser.

The Teacher of the Year contest is also one of the areas of interest of the general Federation of Women's Clubs. Through-out the nation club women generally active in civic endeavors wish to recognize the value of the teacher in community life to improve the occupational climate for teachers, and as a more important result to improve the educational opportunities for American youth.

Last year's district winner was Miss Madalyn Bazzle, principal of Limestone School, Miss Grace Albright, teacher of Latin at Washington-Ingling High School, Clarksburg, was West Virginia's "Teacher of the Year."

The national winner this year will receive a substantial monetary reward to be presented in Detroit in June.

Heart Drive Leader Named

MT. SAVAGE — Francis Mulligan, local business man, has volunteered to serve as general chairman of the Mt. Savage area Heart Fund campaign for the Allegheny-Garrett Heart Association, according to Dr. Benedict Skitarellic, general chairman for the fund drive.

Mulligan served as chairman for the area last year. The Mt. Savage campaign leader is a member of Mt. Savage Council, Knights of Columbus, member of Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree; a member of the Maryland Independent Grocers Association and a member of St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Expressing his gratitude for the work the Heart Association is doing, Mulligan observed that several families in this community and the immediate vicinity will receive direct assistance from the Heart Association.

The chairman said Heart Sunday plans are under way and Mrs. Helen Knepp has been named Heart Sunday chairman for the Mt. Savage area. Mrs. Knepp is a member of Rebecca Arnold Chapter, Order of Eastern Star; the Mt. Savage PTA, the parent-child study group and St. George's Episcopal Church.

She is organizing her volunteers to call upon every home in the vicinity on Heart Sunday, February 23, and will announce her workers shortly. Mulligan also said his workers will be announced in a short time.

Eagle Scout Awards Given Three Youths

PIEDMONT — The awarding of three Eagle Scout badges and a report of his trip to the National Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa. and to International Jamboree in England by Paul Bowman Jr., Luke, featured the father and son banquet held Saturday evening in the recreation hall of Trinity Methodist Church.

The affair is a part of the observance of the 48th anniversary of Boy Scout Week being celebrated by the Boy Scout Troops of the Tri-Towns District until Friday.

One of the three scouts who received the Eagle Scout badge was Walter Mackey McKenzie Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter McKenzie of Lonaconing. He is a member of the Lonaconing Troop of which Leonard Johnson is scoutmaster.

Charles Meese, McCool, formerly of Barton, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Meese, similarly was honored. He is a member of the Barton Troop of which Chester Smith, is scoutmaster.

James Rafter Jr., Westernport, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rafter also became an Eagle Scout. He is a member of Post 30 of which Thomas Rizer is the post advisor. After the honored scouts received their pin a smaller one was given to them which each pinned on their mother's lapel.

David Nuzum, of Keyser, chairman of the Tri-Valley District Scouters, presented the awards assisted by Fred Anderson, Keyser, vice chairman of the district; Julian G. Patrick, Westernport, member of Council Executive Board and a past president of Potomac Council of Boy Scouts; Harry J. Biggs, scoutmaster and a member of the Council executive board; Dr. Donald P. Whitworth, Westernport, member Tri-Towns Board of Review and past chairman of the Tri-Towns District Scouters; Alton R. Portney, vice chairman Tri-Valley; Wilbert R. Sifton, Keyser, field executive of Potomac Council; Leonard Johnson, scoutmaster of Lonaconing troop.

Sifton also presented a Weeblie Cub award to Douglas Michael, of Cub Pack 28 which was pinned on him by Cecil Bateson, cubmaster. He is a son of Mayor and Mrs. Okey E. Michael of Westernport. A similar award was given to Mrs. Michael.

One hundred and thirty-five guests attended the dinner which was given at the Trinity Methodist Church. Singing was led by Dr. Donald P. Whitworth.

The invocation was given by Rev. L. E. Crowson, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church. Group singing was led by Dr. Donald P. Whitworth.

Paul Bowman Jr., gave an excellent account of his trip to the National Jamboree at Valley Forge last summer and to the International Jamboree in England.

Remarks were made by Willis V. Smith, Cumberland, Executive secretary of Potomac Council.

The program concluded with the scoutmaster's benediction led by Scoutmaster Harry J. Biggs.

A roller skating party was held recently for the Explorer Boy Scouts and Senior Girl Scouts of the Tri-Valley District at the K. of P. armory. Each Explorer Boy Scout and each Senior Girl Scout was permitted to invite a guest.

The floor activities were directed by Elmer J. Shaver and Thomas Rizer.

Miscellaneous News Items From The Mountain State

School Heads Air College Requirements

KEYSER — Principals of seven area high schools met Saturday with Dr. E. L. Church, Dean of the West Virginia Council of State College and University presidents, to discuss minimum requirements for college entrance.

The meeting was called by Dr. Church, who explained that it was at the request of the West Virginia Council of State College and University presidents that all publicly supported colleges of the state were to have such meetings with heads of high schools in their areas so that recommendations might be submitted to the council by June 1.

The council, in turn, will summarize the recommendations and present them to the State Board of Education, which will recommend uniform minimum requirements for entrance to the several state supported colleges.

Considered the most significant recommendation of the group at the Saturday meeting was that four years of English be required for college entrance. Currently a student has to be permitted to substitute for learning down the building.

Discussion revealed that weaknesses on the part of college students, in large part from deficiencies in their ability to express themselves clearly in answering essay type questions. The group agreed that there should be a tightening of the reins all along the line in the educational program, so that, beginning in the elementary school, the student is made to realize that there are definite standards to be met.

A series of programs is to be held at Potomac State College in which college department heads will confer with representatives from the same fields of study from the high schools to create a better understanding of the portions of the study which should be stressed in high school to better prepare the student for his college experience in that field.

High school principals present included the following: Thomas Sites, Petersburg; Frank Burgess, Elk Garden; Fred Carroll, Boyard; James Goldsworthy, assistant principal, Keyser; Vernon Stagers, Piedmont; M. M. Heskell, Ridgeley; and William Marner, Fort Ashby.

Potomac State College faculty members present were: Dr. Nancy M. Miller, Miss Helen C. Criner, Dean Flora J. Post, Norman E. Rodgers, A. K. VanSoy, Walter A. Jaworski, David G. Nuzum, James T. Hoadlin, and Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater.

The group were luncheon guests of the college in Davis Hall.

Trooper Killed When Hit While Probing Mishap

CHARLESTON — One of two state troopers struck down and injured last night by a passing automobile which piled into the wreckage of an earlier collision being investigated died early today.

Trooper Robert Ruland, 28, of South Charleston died at a hospital there, attendants said. The victim suffered a skull fracture and other injuries.

Trooper G. W. Dickson, about the same age, of Dunbar, received arm injuries and bruises. He was given emergency treatment and released.

State Police Lt. W. R. Callaghan gave the information on the multiple accident, which involved first two vehicles, then the patrol car of the troopers and the car which crashed into them.

Fire Levels Five Town Properties — A fire whipped by wind burned five adjoining properties Sunday, doing an estimated $250,000 damage.

Temperatures dipped to eight degrees as firemen struggled with frozen fire hydrants to douse the blaze which burned out a large appliance store, an adjoining restaurant, post office, bottled gas company, a dwelling and two apartments over the post office.

Ten persons were made homeless by the fire. All of the properties were owned by Bruce V. Smith Inc.

State School Survey Plan Gets Welcome

Dr. Pullen States Time Appropriate, Dislikes Implication

BALTIMORE — Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., State superintendent of schools, says he welcomes Gov. McKeldin's call for a survey of Maryland high schools. He said the governor's directive could not have come at a more appropriate time but he expressed concern about two implications in McKeldin's directive. The governor called for a survey of high school curricula in a letter to Enos S. Stockbridge, chairman of a governmental self-survey commission. He suggested that the commission conduct the study immediately and make recommendations on ways to better prepare students for college and for years "of unprecedented progress that he ahead."

Implications Disturbing Dr. Pullen said he is disturbed by two implications in the letter. He said one is the assumption that something is wrong with the curricula in the public high schools. "That is quite possible," he said, "but it would be most unscientific and unrealistic to start out with that premise or the converse."

The other implication in the letter is that the General Assembly should assume control over determining the curricula, Dr. Pullen said.

"I am positive that he McKeldin did not intend to convey this impression, as he is too profound a political scientist to advocate that what is taught in the public schools be determined by the political party in power in Annapolis at any time."

Would Call Session McKeldin had said he would not hesitate to call the General Assembly into special session if the report from the Stockbridge commission shows a need for legislative action.

Dr. Pullen said the governor's call for the study came at a very appropriate time. He said the federal government is "apparently determined to preempt the field of science and mathematics . . . in the public high schools. I am opposed to interference of the federal government in the schools of any state or locality."

The superintendent noted that the commission's study would supplement one authorized by the State Board of Education and already underway.

He said the board's study is "more comprehensive in that it covers all fields of education." A conference of local school superintendents will be held this week to discuss progress made on the board's report. Dr. Pullen said for world port and industries dependant on it have a great stake

ICY AFTERMATH—A winter scene hit Eastern Shore town of Centerville, Md., by accident yesterday when 100-foot water storage tank in background overflowed as pumps failed to shut off. Strong westerly winds blew overflow from 30,000 gallon tank onto nearby Broadway Street, Court House to left, utility lines and cars. Some autos had two-inch thick coating of ice.

Idle Naval Facility Draws Criticism

BALTIMORE — George P. Mahoney has criticized the Navy Department for not making greater use of the Naval Powder Factory at Indian Head, Md.

Mahoney said yesterday he has learned that the Navy poured 41 million dollars into the facility since 1951 and 7 million dollars in the last year.

"Yet during the past three years the plant has laid off about 60 per cent of its personnel," he said.

Mahoney, a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination in the May 20th primary election, said this as "a national scandal determined to preempt the field of dal."

He also criticized the awarding of contracts to a California plant for production of certain solid-fuel missile propellants. He noted that the Indian Head plant "is the only facility, public or private, which the commission's study would supplement one authorized by the State Board of Education and already underway."

He said the board's study is "more comprehensive in that it covers all fields of education." A conference of local school superintendents will be held this week to discuss progress made on the board's report. Dr. Pullen said for world port and industries dependant on it have a great stake

Art Exhibition Planned Here

The annual Tri-State Art Exhibition will be held at the Cumberland Free Public Library from March 17 through April 1.

Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger has been designated as general chairman for the annual exhibit, which is sponsored by the Cumberland Branch, American Association of University Women. Artists from throughout the Tri-State area are invited to submit entries which will be judged on Saturday, March 15. Visitors given the opportunity of voting on to the exhibit traditionally are their choice among the art works.

Storm Continues In Garrett Area

National Guard Helping
County Roads Department

Garrett County and surrounding mountainous regions of West Virginia and Pennsylvania continued in the grip of a blizzard today.

County roads were drifting shut as fast as they could be plowed. The snow was piled so high along some side roads heavy equipment such as bulldozers were put into operation.

The National Guard was called upon to assist with equipment. Schools remained open, but whether they would be open in the state's western-most county was only problematical.

There was two-way traffic on all state highways, but at numerous places the snow piled on the sides made passing "tight."

To Remain Cold

And the forecast sheds little hope for the Garrett Countians. The Weather Bureau said it will be cold tonight with the lowest between zero and ten degrees. Tomorrow is to see some cloudiness and a little warmer.

The forecast is the same for Allegheny County except the low will be from ten to 20 degrees. Low temperatures reported this morning were: Big Savage, 10; Mountain, nine below; New Germany, six below; Accident and Marysville, three below; Elkins, one above; Thomas and Deal, four below; and Frostburg, zero.

Winds Continue

W. W. DeWitt, Garrett County roads engineer said the county roads were drifting shut as fast as they could be plowed because of the high wind today. The wind died down this morning early, but later on became high again, blowing snow so hard a blizzard-like condition resulted. Visibility was reported poor.

DeWitt said the county's plows which are being operated around the clock are being augmented by bulldozers, seven of them belonging to the department and the other to Company C, the Maryland National Guard unit in Oakland. The National Guard has also supplied a truck with a plow.

Crews Weary

DeWitt said the crews are becoming weary from the work on coming winds during January and long shifts during the month. Equipment breakdowns are starting from the long and hard use.

Willard Hawkins, Garrett County superintendent of schools, said the schools were open today but there was a high rate of absenteeism due to the many county roads being drifted shut.

He said at noon today he didn't know whether schools would be open tomorrow.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said after a trip through part of the storm-bound county there was two-way traffic on all state highways.

Rotary Kept Busy

The big rotary plow based at Oakland is being used around the clock to widen spots that are narrow. For a distance of about 500 feet, the Finzel road is one-way, he said, but this condition was to be alleviated by this afternoon.

East of Frostburg the snow became lighter, and there was not much of a problem for travel over them.

Chaires noted that since Friday night there was nine inches of new snow in Garrett County. Frostburg had seven inches.

Both Chaires and DeWitt compared the snow and wind with the winters of 1935 and 1947.

Parking Meter Removal Asked

The Down Town Parking Corporation has asked that parking meters in front of the proposed commercial parking lot on Union Street be removed.

The Mayor and Council referred the letter to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan with power to act.

Simon Rosenbaum, corporation president, said the lot to be located on property formerly occupied by the Merchant Wholesale and Tri-State Electrical buildings, will hold 70 cars. He said the meters would hamper customer parking, block the driveway and make it difficult for customers to turn in to the lot.

Elderly Rawlings Man Dies From Gunshot Wound

John Edgar Stephens, 78, a native of Altoona, Pa., died early this morning in the Sacred Heart Hospital after a gunshot wound in his head. He was a retired employee of the Cpl. Harry S. Bosley of the Maryland State Police, who investigated, said Stephens died at 4:25 a. m. of a self-inflicted wound in his right temple.

Cpl. Bosley said the wound was a single shot from a .22 calibre rifle. Police said the shooting occurred sometime Saturday night, and the victim was found early Sunday morning sitting in a large chair in a room at his home.

J. E. Kenny, Democratic Leader, Dies

Westernport Man
Had Served On
Two County Boards

James Estel Kenny, 61, of 154 Church Street, Westernport, well known in area political circles, died suddenly this morning.

Mr. Kenny, a member of the Democratic State Central Committee, died in his grocery market on Main Street in Westernport. Death was believed due to a heart attack.

A native of Elk Garden, Mr. Kenny had operated the Sanitary Market in Westernport for the past 33 years.

Was Past Commander
He was a former member of the Allegheny County Board of Election Supervisors, a former member of the Allegheny County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners, a past commander of Victory Post 155, American Legion of Westernport, and a past commander of Mountain District, American Legion, and a director of the First National Bank of Piedmont.

Mr. Kenny was a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Westernport; Council 685, Knights of Columbus of Piedmont, and Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus.

He was a graduate of Potomac State College of Keyser, and was married on December 26, 1925 to the former Geraldine Moffett of Oakland.

Five Children Survive
He was a son of the late John and Mary Veronica (Brophy) Kenny.

Besides his widow, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Harold Moran, Westernport, and Miss Martha Ann Kenny, at home; three sons, James E. Jr., William M., and Patrick J. Kenny, all at home; a sister, Mrs. Mae White, Canton, Ohio.

He is also survived by five brothers, Frank Kenny, Canton; Richard and Bernard Kenny, both of Westernport; John Kenny, Elk Garden, and Thomas Kenny, Mt. Savage, and four grandchildren.

The body is at the Fredrick Funeral Home in Piedmont.

Snow, Bitter Cold Hurting Game, Birds

The cold weather and snow which has brought discomfort to residents of the area has also made life miserable for wildlife and song birds.

Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke said he has received numerous inquiries from persons wishing to feed song birds.

A good suggestion one man made was for housewives to salvage food scraps such as bread, and the fat from meats to use in feeding the birds.

State bread could also be obtained from bakeries and grocery stores at little cost and this would be of great help in feeding song birds, Minke added.

Minke said the State Game and Inland Fish Commission is worried over the fate of wild turkeys in Garrett County. The rural roads in many sections where the turkeys are found have been blocked for some time due to drifting snow.

In Allegheny County the situation of wildlife is much better. Some groups, such as the Queen City Bird Dog Club, have been feeding grain to quail and other wildlife. The Queen City group has been feeding grain to more than 50 coveys of quail which have been located in the county.

Game officials have been setting out corn and other grains for turkeys, quail and deer in Allegheny County, particularly on Green Ridge State Forest, since January 1. Quail have been faring better than expected, despite the extremely bad weather, Minke said.

Rabbits and squirrels are not affected so much by the cold, snowy weather.

Both Lakes Full

Lake Gordon is three inches above the crest of the spillway and Lake Koon two inches above, C. L. Brottemark, assistant superintendent of Exits Creek Water Company, reported today.

Consumption for the week ending yesterday was 78,500,000 gallons compared to 84,300,000 the same period a year ago.

Skating Set Today

The Recreation Department said today ice skating will be available at the Gephart School Playground rink today from 7 to 10 p. m.

FATAL FIRE SCENE—Members of the Keyser Volunteer Fire Company are shown at the scene of the fire yesterday on U. S. Route 50 near Hartmansville, W. Va., in which an elderly couple lost their lives. Victims of the home fire were Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cornell.

E. Wade Thomas, Keyser, West Virginia state fire marshal, is shown in the foreground as he directed operations at the scene. Extremely cold weather hampered the work of the firefighters. It was reported that snow thrown in the embers failed to melt.

Typical American Courage

Oldtime American common sense, courage and straightforwardness are exemplified in Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro's dramatic action proposing tax relief for manufacturers, retailers and advertising. Not only is D'Alesandro's action being hailed with enthusiasm in Baltimore, but it has brought commendation throughout Maryland and in many parts of the nation.

Americans have been discouraged in recent years over the lack of leadership in government—local, state and federal. It began to be accepted that forthrightness, initiative and courage had disappeared from the American scene. Middle-of-the-road policies, inaction and timidity seemed more and more fashionable. The very qualities that made the United States great appeared less and less in evidence.

Mayor D'Alesandro, disdaining the hesitant and subtle approach to the problem of taxation, the politician's method, has met a difficult situation head-on. Exhibiting not only a common sense that is rare in modern office holders, Mayor D'Alesandro shows real courage in reversing himself on taxation policy. There is a refreshing humility in admitting that a recommended policy is wrong, and it is in the best American tradition to say so plainly and without equivocation.

This newspaper, which thought the Mayor of Baltimore was wrong in his proposal for a tax on advertising, has no hesitancy in paying tribute to his humility and courage in reversing his position in this matter. It is a refreshing and heartening example that is thus presented by the chief executive of the nation's sixth largest city. May we indulge the hope that Mayor D'Alesandro's common sense, courage and initiative may be the beginning of a revival of oldtime American leadership in positions of public responsibility.

Elderly Couple Burns To Death

Man, 90, And His Wife, 78,
Trapped In Blazing Home

An elderly man and wife burned to death yesterday when fire destroyed their home on U. S. Route 50 near Hartmansville, W. Va.

Killed were Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cornell. Authorities explained that Mrs. Cornell, 78, an invalid for several years, was found dead in her bed, while the body of her 90-year-old husband was found near the front door of the frame home where he apparently collapsed trying to escape the flames.

Sheriff Walter Mott of Mineral County, who investigated, said a daughter, Mrs. Audrey Burgess, who lived nearby, discovered the fire at 2 p. m. about an hour after she had left her parents to prepare a meal for her family.

Efforts To No Avail

The home was enveloped in flames when the fire was discovered, Sheriff Mott said, and little could be done by the time the Keyser Volunteer Fire Company arrived at the scene.

E. Wade Thomas of Keyser, state fire marshal, who was in charge of firefighters, said operations were hampered by zero weather. The cold was so extreme, he said, that snow thrown on the embers failed to melt.

Mr. Cornell was a native of Grant County, W. Va., a son of the late Thomas and Susan (Shillingsburg) Cornell.

Surviving, besides Mrs. Burgess, is a sister, Mrs. Lucy Solars, Kitzmiller.

Mrs. Cornell, the former Miss Cora Frances Cosner, was also born in Grant County, a daughter of the late Moaten and Ellen Cosner. Twice married, she was preceded in death by her first husband, Calvin Hanlin. She held membership in Locust Grove Church of the Brethren, Bismarck, W. Va.

Second Tragedy

Her survivors, besides Mrs. Burgess, include a son, Alston Hanlin, Accident; another daughter, Mrs. Clie Baker, Hartmansville; two brothers, Martin Cosner, Bismarck, and Sanford Cosner, Scherr, and three sisters, Mrs. Sadie Weese, Mrs. Nora Rinker and Mrs. Minnie Schell, employees, in a seven-state area, selected for supervisory training at the central office of the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance of Social Security.

Wolfe is married and has three children. His family expects to move here in the near future.

Authorities said the fire was the second such tragedy to strike at Mrs. Cornell's family. A brother, Milford Cosner, perished in a similar accident on February 6, 1949.

The bodies are at the Sharpless Funeral Home, Blaine, W. Va. Services have been tentatively set for Wednesday afternoon at Hartmansville Methodist Church, with interment in Evans Cemetery there.

Celanese Plans Fall Promotion

NEW YORK — A fall fashion campaign to be launched by Celanese Corporation of America will be centered upon the active lives of what is described as "The Suburban Woman."

The promotion, called "Who Is She?", will be directed toward the business in both central and suburban areas. It is emphasized, four-inch line was inadequate, and toward all store departments, better fire protection would be from apparel and over-the-counter provided and fluctuating pressure would be eliminated; impending Industrial Boulevard construction this market has been almost completely neglected or ignored by fashion, although the suburban woman has an income that is 70 per cent higher than the national average. It also is felt that fashion has failed to focus on this market at a time when, it is said, some 83 per cent of the 1940-1956 population growth (more than 11,500,000) took place in these areas and when the proportion of the consumer dollar spent on apparel in this "area of affluence" is lower than it was in the depth of the depression.

Resolution Of Respect

The Mayor and Council acted today to prepare a resolution of class will be formed of seven members for Fr stburg Council, Hirsch, "father" of the commission and three members for Piedmont sinner form of government, who died Saturday.

Your Horoscope

Look to the section in which your birthday falls, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, February 11, 1958

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries)...

Don't seek to find the fault elsewhere than in your own vicinity and you will better understand and find the errors, for most of them are close by and visible BY US. A grand day for just gain.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus)...

Get started early to do things you know you should do first, and be sure it is first things first. And don't forget those little important items. Point up the day's fine advantages.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini)...

You will be able to press opinions ably if you are tactful and have the attitude that others' viewpoints are to be equally respected. Everyone has some attention. Aspects are excellent now.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer)...

There is unlimited reason for cheer in many departments. While certain affairs may rightly cause concern, you can achieve many blessings and have very many golden opportunities.

JULY 24 to AUG. 23 (Leo)...

But he duty attentive to personal affairs, and where you can further worthwhile civic and family matters. There is room for improvement, and you are roundly capable.

AUG. 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo)...

Start right, and finish in a uniquely careful manner. Work and plan for today, and tomorrow's concerns will be no end to the achievement (and variety of it) that you can produce. Enjoy the company of loved ones, cheerful associates. Birthdate: Thomas A. Edison, inventor.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra)...

Note: Virgo today, your indications are similar. Aim to make small, but higher, more intelligent and clever manner. Never tear down, always build.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 23 (Scorpio)...

There are many reasons for investigating first, before accepting propositions or changing from what you feel is right to another person's way or project. There is more than one way to succeed, but use the best.

NOVEMBER 24 to DECEMBER 23 (Sagittarius)...

Panel discussions, intelligent, purposeful debates, seeking objective opinions of wise heads will make this day the good one it should be. Smile, have humor, we always have the trials.

DECEMBER 24 to JANUARY 23 (Capricorn)...

Keep personal matters private, but don't hesitate to discuss with your spouse or counselor whatever disturbs you. Don't just tell things to everyone. New approaches can attract.

JANUARY 24 to FEBRUARY 19 (Aquarius)...

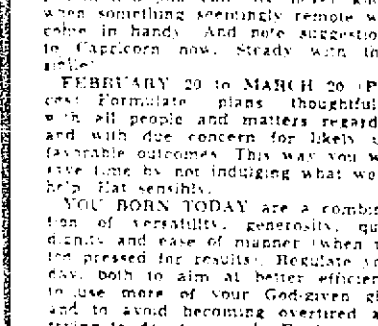

Stick up on all the useful information you can. We never know when something seemingly remote will come in handy. Add more suggestions to the "Cyclopedia" now. Strive with that.

FEBRUARY 20 to MARCH 20 (Pisces)...

Formulate plans thoughtfully, with all people and matters regarded and with due concern for likely, favorable outcome. This way you will give time by not indulging what won't be fruitful.

YOUR BOON TODAY are a combination of versatility, generosity, quiet dignity and ease of manner when not preoccupied by the business of your day. Both to aim at better efficiency in use more of your God-given gifts and to avoid becoming overworked and trying to do too much. Don't assume.

Town Reduces Its Tax Rate

SNOW HILL, Md. —Property tax rates in this Worcester County town have been reduced 10 percent because of a reduction in the town debt and an increase in its assessable basis.

Mayor B. Herman Adkins, explaining the decrease from $1.10 to 90 cents per $100 of assessed value, said the town's debt has been reduced to $18,000 and this will be paid off in three more years.

The mayor said no services provided by the town will be reduced or curtailed.

Sen. Northrup Will Run Again

ROCKVILLE, Md. — State Sen. Edward S. Northrup announced today he will seek re-election by Montgomery County Democrats in Maryland's May 20 primary.

Northrup, who had been mentioned earlier as a possible candidate for attorney general or governor, is chairman of a 10-member legislative committee which has made intensive studies of State fiscal affairs.

A native of Chevy Chase, Northrup is 46, a Navy veteran of World War II, and a lawyer. He is completing his first four-year term in the Senate.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass
Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not let this happen to you. Get FASTEETH, the new, revolutionary (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (retains breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

face court magistrate in Baltimore City; Paul Fletcher, long-time Allegany County State's attorney; and three members of the old Industrial Accident Commission — Miss Helen Elizabeth Brown and Lester H. Crowther, both of Baltimore, and Daniel Doherty of Rockville.

Majority Leader Turnbull (D-Balto County) has urged the Senate to act on the appointments as soon as possible because the new agency was to begin functioning Feb. 1. It already has a backlog of cases. The Industrial Accident Commission has expired.

The Legislature's No. 1 problem child — McKeldin's $36 million dollar budget and proposals to increase the sales and income taxes — gets its first thorough study this week.

Department heads start tomorrow interviews with committees who are in a budget-slashing mood. Officials of the State retirement systems and roads commission will be the first to appear.

The saving sighted Friday by Chairman Turnbull of the Senate Finance Committee and Boone of the House Ways and Means Committee involves State retirement costs. They put in an emergency bill to force State agencies supported by special taxes, such as those on gasoline and motor vehicles, to pay the retirement costs of employees.

Such costs now come out of the general fund supported by the sales, income and other general taxes. Although it is a bookkeeping measure, it could cut an estimated $500,000 or more from the general fund money needed to be raised and thus lessen the tax problem that much. The State Roads Commission would have to foot most of the cost since it has the most employees.

Turnbull and Boone have set a goal of approximately seven million dollars to be tapped from general fund spending.

The roads commission comes tomorrow night for its budget hearings and to present to the Legislature progress reports on highway construction.

The report Tuesday night will review the first four years of the roads program and include estimates of federal aid needed to complete projects.

The second, to be presented Wednesday night, will be a mammoth county-by-county breakdown of the entire program and will include some recommended new projects which the commission feels should be added. Necessary legislation to put it into effect wouldn't come until next year.

This is plenty of 1958 legislation awaiting the SRC's appearance, including bills to curb the commission's powers in deciding where roads should be located and remove its authority to lease land alongside expressways for commercial ventures, such as restaurants and filling stations. An old bill, which gained Legislative Council approval for the first time, would expand the SRC from three to five members for wider geographical representation.

When time has flown...get it back by phone

It's only natural to forget. Even an important date, or an anniversary, can slip your mind until the very moment is here. Time was, when you forgot an event, there was no quick solution. Today it's no trouble at all to recapture time with a phone call—anywhere, any moment. And that call gives the person you momentarily forgot a pleasant feeling of being remembered. It's such simple everyday things as this that make a telephone so important a part of our daily lives.
